Part I:

1. ECTS system – introduction

In 2006/2007 Lodz Academy of International Studies introduces the European Credit Transfer System /ECTS/ in the Department of International Relations. The objective of the system is to calculate the amount of students work, meaning the time required to achieve all the marks in all obligatory and optional subjects and, at the same time to achieve graduation from the university. Various forms of teaching are taken into account. They are: lectures, workshops, conversation classes, seminars, assignments and student placement. ECTS includes the activity of all students during the classes, their homeworks, their work in the university library, creative placement and apprenticeship. In consideration of developed cooperation with foreign countries ECTS is to enable the students to travel abroad and visit various universities in Poland. During bachelor degree studies which last three years, the students are obliged to collect 180 points. Master-degree studies lasting five years require the total number of 300 points. Two-stage study system 3+2 introduced in WSSM necessitates adequately 180+120 ECTS points for graduation. In order to graduate from extramural bachelor degree studies student needs 120 points. In case of master-degree studies the number of points adds up to 200 (120 + 80) ECTS credits. The amount of work done by extramural students equals to two thirds of time of work required from daily students.¹

The other teaching matters may be presented in the following order:

- ECTS for the Department of International Relations was introduced in part II.
- The courses end with an exam or a graded assignment.
- The students discuss their syllabus at a partner university on the basis of Learning Agreement, which specifies the subjects and the time of students' stay at the partner university.
- To credit the exchange students or the transnational exchange ones with a course - one expects the number of 30/60 points. In case of a smaller number of points or significant programme differences, the students have to make up for the courses at their own universities to achieve the required number of points. The students will get an assignment if they deliver the Transcript of Records.
- More detailed information can be found in the Regulations of Socrates/Erasmus on WSSM internet page: <http://www.wssm.edu.pl/img/fields/File/regulamin.doc>
- The students are not charged for anything by the host university.
- The students are required to pay tuition fees at their home university (see University Regulations)
- During the stay at a partner university students may benefit from social or scientific grants.
- The period of student's residence at the partner university lasts from three months to one academic year.

ECTS defines the principles of studying in Poland and abroad by means of precise requirements of assignments and offers the possibility of comparing the curricula

1.3 Briefly about Lodz:

Lodz is the second largest city in Poland (after Warsaw) with about 800,000 inhabitants. Lodz lies 135 kilometres away from Warsaw (the journey by train takes about two hours and similarly two hours when you take the Polski Express bus). The city is the main centre of textile industry (one of the most important in the world). Other branches developed here include clothing, IT, chemical and automation industries.

Lodz is also a significant cultural and scientific centre with numerous public and private universities, a research centre of the Polish Academy of Sciences, radio broadcasting stations and a TV centre. Our city is the biggest film making centre in Poland, with the National Film, Television and Theatre School and film production companies.

The city also has several museums: the City Historical Museum, the Archaeology and Ethnography Museum, the Modern Art Gallery, and the Textile Museum. The recreational grounds are in the northern part of the city (Lagiewnicki forest with a leisure centre on the bank of the Bzura river – Arturowek). In the western part of the city there is a Park of Culture and Recreation with a funfair, zoological and botanical gardens. Nowadays Lodz is one of the most modern centres of commerce, business and science. The landmarks of the city history are such monuments as: a baroque church and a Franciscan cloister from the 18th century in Lagiewniki, a neoclassical town-hall (1827), enormous old factories and residencies of the celebrated Jewish and German industrialist families – the Poznanskis, the Hertz and the Scheiblers, the biggest Jewish cemetery in Europe and Piotrkowska street – the longest shopping precinct in Europe with Art Nouveau buildings. In the city there are many cinemas and theatres, among the biggest are the Silver Screen at 5 Pilsudskiego Str. (www.silverscreen.pl), the Baltyk at 20 Narutowicza Str at the back of the Lodz Philharmonic named after Artur Rubinstein (www.heliosnet.pl), and the Polonia cinema at 67 Piotrkowska Str. The Lodz Opera House is situated at Dabrowski square. In 2006 the biggest entertainment centre in Eastern Europe (Manufaktura) opened in the grounds of old factory areas originally owned by Izaak Poznanski. The old industrial areas are renovated and adapted to a shopping mall, restaurants, museum and entertainment centre (cinema, hotel, disco). More information about Lodz in English may be found at http://www.lodz.pl/wersja_angielska/indeksik.php3

Polish students going abroad may purchase a E-111 form at the National Health Fund (<http://www.nfz.gov.pl/ue/>) at 32/34 Zeligowskiego Str. In case of lack of this document the student is obliged to cover the costs of treatment. It is also advisable to purchase Euro<26 youth/student Card (<http://www.euro26.org.pl/>). 1. Information about study programme of International Relations faculty International Relations – 5-year second degree studies are conducted in stationary and non-stationary modes. A graduate of these studies receives a Master's Degree. In order to finish the studies the student is obliged to prepare a final M.A. Thesis and pass the M.A. exam with the positive result. The student is allowed to take the final exam only after receiving passing grades in all obligatory subjects during the studies, receiving 300 ECTS (200 ECTS in non-stationary mode) and fulfilling all financial duties to the University. Detailed information can be found in the Study Statutes in part VIII. The M.A. final exam is an oral exam. The student should present a sufficient knowledge in specialized field, especially in the field of their M.A. Thesis. Detailed information is also placed in part VIII of Study Statutes.

International Relations faculty programme meets all the teaching standards offering adequate to the ministerial expectations number of teaching hours of basic subjects, general knowledge subjects, specialty subjects and optional subjects provided additionally by the University. The stationary M.A. studies of International Relations last no shorter than 3 years (6 semesters). Total number of didactic hours of International Relations faculty in WSSM is 3100 (including 3000 hours required in teaching standards drawn by the Minister of Education's decree, announced November 3rd 2003). The M.A. non-stationary studies involve about 2/3 of the stationary programme. Total number of didactic hours is 1922.

Requirements of recruitment to International Relations studies do not differ from general recruitment requirements in WSSM and are thoroughly described in part I, chapter 2.8 – "Recruitment regulations". A student who is planning to take International Relations should speak at least intermediate English because of optional subject taught in English and should present interest in international matters. Optional subjects recruitment regulations are available at ECTS coordinator (look below chapter 2.2).

An International Relations graduate should possess basic knowledge in areas of sociology, politics, economics, international relations mechanisms, law, government, enriched by traditions and history of nations of different culture roots and also matters concerning economic, political and cultural globalization. The graduate will be prepared to take up work in local and national governmental facilities, international and national institutions and organizations, the EU organs and business companies and cultural facilities.

There are three specialties offered by International Relations faculty: International Political Relations, International Law combined with International Business and Finance, and Mass Communication and Media. According to teaching requirements there are 7 subjects conducted in three last semesters giving the total number of 210 didactic hours in each specialty. Specialty subjects always fit with the specialty major, they can however change according to the didactic offer prepared for the certain school year.

The methods and rules of grading are placed in programme of International Relations diagrams and the rules of final grade of the studies are located in paragraph 43 of the Study Statutes.

2. The diagram of the curriculum of daily regular studies + description of particular subjects

2.1 Diagram interpretation

Subject code – first three digits stand for the international code of the field of studies (14.6 for the European Studies). The next two letters signify the level of studies – B.A. – Bachelor of Arts. The next digit stands for the semester (e.g. 1 or 2), while “O” means optional subject and “S” – specialization subject. The next two digits stand for the next subject in a given semester. The final letter D means daily regular studies, Z – extramural studies. For instance, 14.6BA203D means: the subject from the second semester of daily regular studies at the Faculty of European B.A. Studies⁸, while 14.6BAO02Z – the optional subject at extramural studies. The code for optional subjects does not include the semester, as they can appear in different years of study.

The form of classes: Ćw – classes; W – lecture, K – seminars;

The form of passing: Z – pass, E – examination. All subjects must end with a grade.

G/S – the number of teaching hours in a semester, G/T – the number of teaching hours weekly, G/Z – the number of teaching hours per session (for extramural studies).

2.2 The local grading scale compared to ECTS scale/ ECTS departmental coordinator

Local grade	Local name of grade	ECTS grade	ECTS name of grade
5	“bardzo dobry” very good	A	Excellent
4+	“dobry plus” good plus	B	Very good
4	“dobry” good	C	Good
3+	“dostateczny plus” satisfactory plus	D	Satisfactory
3	“dostateczny” satisfactory	E	Sufficient
2	“niedostateczny” unsatisfactory	FX,F	Fail

Grade 2 – Fail grade – stands for lack of basic knowledge and fails the subject.
